

City Law School, Institute for the Study of European Law
EU Trade and Investment Policy (EUTIP) H2020 Network

THE EU AS A GOOD GLOBAL ACTOR

19 June 2020 (via Zoom)

LIST OF SPEAKERS

Isabella Mancini, City Law School, City, University of London

Isabella Mancini is a PhD candidate and an Early Stage Researcher in City Law School, City, University of London within the Marie Skłodowska-Curie Innovative Training Network (ITN) on EU Trade and Investment Policy (EUTIP). Isabella is working on a thesis on 'The Place of Fundamental Rights in the New Generation of EU 'Deep' Trade Agreements with other Developed Economies'. Her research focuses on two sets of fundamental rights - labour and data privacy rights - and on the latest trade initiatives between the EU and other developed economies in North America and Asia. Isabella is author of chapters of books, journal articles and working papers.

Dr Eva Kassoti, TMC Asser Institute

Dr Eva Kassoti is a Senior Researcher in International and EU Law as well as the academic co-ordinator for the Centre of the Law of EU External Relations (CLEER) at the TMC Asser Institute. Eva has held visiting fellowships at Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg (Germany), the TMC Asser Institute, and the EUI (Florence). Her research interests include public international law, EU law, EU external relations law, as well as the interplay between the international and the EU legal order, authoring more than 30 publications, including articles, working papers, reports, etc. Her monograph entitled 'The Juridical Nature of Unilateral acts of States in International Law' was published in 2015.

Prof James Harrison, Warwick University Law School

James Harrison is a Professor in the School of Law at the University of Warwick. He has previously worked as a practicing solicitor and researcher, and also as a consultant for a number of international organisations such as the Council of Europe, the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, the Canadian Council for International Cooperation, etc. James has a particular interest in exploring the broader social and environmental impacts of economic laws, process and actors. He also studies many non-traditional forms of regulation and the use of legal norms by non-governmental organisations. James has a number of written reports, articles and books. He is also author of the book 'The Human Rights Impact of the World Trade Organisation' (Hart Publishing, 2017).

Dr Oisín Suttle, Maynooth University Department of Law

Dr Oisín Suttle is an Assistant Professor of Law at Maynooth University since 2019. Before that he taught at Queen's University Belfast, the University of Sheffield and University College London. He previously practiced commercial law with a leading Dublin law firm. Oisín's research interests are primarily in international law, including in particular international trade law, and legal and political theory. His book, Distributive Justice and World Trade Law: A Political Theory of International Economic Law (Cambridge University Press, 2017), was awarded the prestigious Peter Birks Prize for Outstanding Legal Scholarship. His other work has been published in top international journals.

Prof Elaine Fahey, City Law School, City, University of London

Elaine Fahey is Jean Monnet Chair of Law & Transatlantic Relations and Professor of Law at the Institute for the Study of European Law (ISEL) at City Law School, City, University of London. Elaine was recently awarded a British Academy/Leverhulme Research Grant. Her research interests span the relationship between EU law and global governance, trade, transatlantic relations, the EU's Area of Freedom, Security and Justice and the study of law beyond the State. Her publications include a monograph, The Global Reach of EU Law (Routledge, 2016) and a number of multi-disciplinary edited volumes. She has also authored articles, reports and working papers, published in leading law journals.

Ewa Zelazna, University of Leicester

Ewa Zelazna joined the Leicester Law School as a lecturer in September 2017. She previously worked in the Department as a Graduate Teaching Assistant in Land Law. Ewa completed traineeship at the Chambers of Judge Christopher Vajda at the Court of Justice of the European Union. She was awarded a Teaching Partnership Award for her contribution to teaching and Midlands Postgraduate Conference Prize for best presentation. Ewa's main research interests are in the fields of EU constitutional law, EU external relations and international investment law. She is currently completing a PhD entitled 'The EU Investment Policy after the Treaty Lisbon 2009: an Institutional Perspective'.

Dr Maria Garcia, University of Bath

Dr Maria Garcia is a Senior Lecturer in International Relations at University of Bath since 2014. Her current projects include a book on the divergent free trade agreement strategies of large and small economies in Asia-Pacific and their effects on the development of future economic governance in the region. Her research interests embrace International trade and economic governance, EU-USA trade negotiations and Transpacific Partnership negotiations, EU-Asia, EU-China, EU-Australasia and EU-Latin America Relations, Regional integration and inter-regionalism, Societal impacts of trade agreements/ Values and trade, International Political Economy, in the field of which she has published a number of articles, working papers and reports.

Dr Clair Gammage, University of Bristol Law School

Dr Clair Gammage is a Senior Lecturer in Law at the University of Bristol. As a critical scholar of international economic law, Clair has published extensively in the field of law and development. Clair's research interests relate to the relationship between trade and human rights, and the trade: (sustainable) development nexus. She is a scholar of WTO law and writes on regional trade agreements and the EU's external trade policy. Her first monograph, North-South Regional Trade Agreements as Legal Regimes: A Critical Assessment of the EU-SADC Economic Partnership Agreement (Edward Elgar Publishing, 2017) has been widely celebrated for its interdisciplinary account of the EU's trade relationships with its former colonies in the African, Caribbean and Pacific region.

Dr Billy Melo Araujo, Queen's University Belfast

Dr Billy Melo Araujo is a Senior Lecturer of Law at the School of Law of Queen's University Belfast. He previously worked as a solicitor in Brussels, where his practice focused on Belgian corporate law and EU law, and later as an intern at the WTO Appellate Body Secretariat in Geneva. His research interests lie in the areas of EU external relations and international economic law. His current research focuses on the use of free trade agreements to disseminate regulatory disciplines and impact such trade deals have on national regulatory autonomy. Billy is author of the monograph 'The EU Deep Trade Agenda – Law and Policy' (Oxford Studies in European Law, 2016), as well as to many other publications with particular focus on EU external trade relations.

Prof Christopher Kuner, VUB Brussels

Christopher Kuner is Professor of Law and Co-chair of the Brussels Privacy Hub at the Vrije Universiteit Brussel (VUB). Christopher is also Senior Privacy Counsel in the Brussels office of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati Law firm. He is editor-in-chief of the law journal International Data Privacy Law and has been active in international organisations such as the Council of Europe, the OECD and UNCITRAL. His research interests include EU and global data protection law, EU law, fundamental rights law, public international law, private international law. He is author / co-author of five books and a number of book chapters, articles and reports. His publications have been cited by leading international courts, including the Court of Justice of the European Union, the German Federal Supreme Court, and a leading US federal district court.

Svetlana Yakovleva, University of Amsterdam

Svetlana Yakovleva is a PhD researcher at the Institute for Information Law (IvIR), University of Amsterdam and Senior Legal Advisor at De Brauw, Blackstone, Westbroek (Amsterdam). Her main interests are in the field of privacy and cybersecurity law, EU and international trade law. Her articles were published in leading law journals such as World Trade Review, European Data Protection Law Review and European Intellectual Property Review. Svetlana's latest work – article titled 'Privacy Protection(ism): The Latest Wave of Trade Constraints on Regulatory Autonomy', has recently been published in the February 2020 issue of the University of Miami Law Review.

Prof Andrea Ott, University of Maastricht

Andrea Ott is Professor at the Law Faculty of Maastricht University. Since 2011 she holds a Jean Monnet Chair in EU law. She has wide experience in legal consultancy for Dutch ministries and the European Commission in Central and Eastern Europe and teaches regularly on EU institutional law, EU external relations, enlargement and WTO law in the Netherlands, Central and Eastern Europe and Southeast Asia and China. Andrea is member of the editorial committee of Maastricht Journal of European and Comparative Law. She is author of 33 chapters in books and a number of articles and working papers with main focus on EU and international law and EU external relations. Her last work has been published in April 2020, the book chapter 'EU external competence' in 'EU external relations law. Text, cases and materials.' (Hart Publishing, 2020).

Dr Anke Moerland, University of Maastricht

Dr Anke Moerland is Assistant Professor of Intellectual property law at Maastricht University. She holds a PhD on Intellectual property protection in EU bilateral trade agreements. Since 2018, she holds a visiting professorship at Queen Mary University of London on Intellectual Property Law, Governance and Art. Since 2017, Anke coordinates the EIPIN Innovation Society, a 4-year Horizon 2020 grant under the Marie Skłodowska Curie Action ITN-EJD. Her research and expertise focus on intellectual property law, international trade law, external relations of the EU and international relations. Anke has authored chapters in books, journal articles, working papers, and has edited two books in the field of intellectual property law.

Tobias Gehrke, Egmont Institute Brussels

Tobias Gehrke joined the Egmont Institute in 2017 as a Research Fellow. His research centres on geoeconomics, economic security strategies, the securitization of economic and technological interdependencies, deepening economic and security competition between the Great Powers, and the strategic responses of the EU to these challenges through its trade, investment, and other regulatory instruments. He is also part of the EU Horizon 2020 Marie Curie research project EUTIP, through which he is pursuing a PhD at Ghent University. He regularly comments on EU trade & investment policy developments, EU-US-China triangular strategic affairs, the transatlantic and EU-China economic relationship, etc.

Prof Henry Farrell, George Washington University

Henry Farrell is Associate Professor of Political science and International affairs at George Washington University. He works on a variety of topics, including trust, the politics of the Internet and international and comparative political economy. Henry has authored and co-authored 25 academic articles for journals including International Organization, World Politics, Comparative Political Studies and the Annual Review of Political Science, as well as numerous book chapters for edited volumes. His co-authored book, Of Privacy and Power: The Transatlantic Fight over Freedom and Security (Princeton University Press, 2019) is the winner of the 2019 Chicago-Kent College of Law / Roy C. Palmer Civil Liberties Prize, the 2020 ISA-ICOMM Award, and one of Foreign Affairs' Best Books of 2019.

Prof Abraham Newman, Georgetown University

Abraham Newman is a Professor in the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service and Government Department at Georgetown University and he also serves as director of Georgetown's Mortara Center for International Studies. His research focuses on the ways in which economic interdependence and globalization have transformed international politics. Abraham is the co-author of 'Of Privacy and Power: the Transatlantic Struggle over Freedom and Security' (Princeton University Press, 2019) – the winner of the 2019 Chicago-Kent College of Law / Roy C. Palmer Civil Liberties Prize, and of many others. His work has appeared in a range of journals including Comparative Political Studies, International Organization, International Security, Science, and World Politics.

Prof Kalypso Nicolaidis, Oxford University

Kalypso Nicolaidis is Professor of International Relations at the University of Oxford and a governing body fellow at St Antony's College at the European Studies Centre. She teaches the theories and practice of international relations, European integration, international political economy, negotiation and game theory, and research methods. Previously Professor at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government, she has worked with numerous EU institutions. Kalypso's interests revolve around internal and external aspects of EU integration as well as global affairs, theatres of recognition, democratic theory, solidarity and empathy, global governance and international trade, sustainable integration, post-colonialism, myth and politics and the import of new technologies on international relations. Her latest book titled 'Exodus, Reckoning, Sacrifice: Three Meanings of Brexit' was published in 2019.